

INSTITUTE OF DESTINATION ARCHITECTS AND DESIGNERS

LETTER TO CONTRIBUTORS AND CORRESPONDENTS

INVITATION

Congratulations!

It is our pleasure to extend this invitation for you to contribute to one of the most captivating series of planned international publications. As you may know, there is a great need for the voice of designers, planners, architects and professionals to be heard as they discuss destinations in an environment which cultivates originality, entertainment and business value in the resort, travel and tourism planning arena.

Professionals like yourself, who understand the differences between destination design and general design practice, can appreciate the added value of having quality dialog through our magazine, “Destination Architecture.” You will also enjoy the advantages afforded through the timely information from contemporaries in the field provided by the free newsletter, “Destination Latitudes.”

In building our contributor and subscriber base, the Institute is dedicated to the establishment of what could become the industry authority in the hospitality, travel and tourism planning field. To make this happen, join hundreds of others by being a subscriber, contributor or correspondent and increase the benefits of the free newsletter with each issue.

We commend your successes in the field, and hope to learn even more from reviewing your article submissions.
